HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE FOR SINGLE-USE PLASTICS TO BIODEGRADE?

HOW ECO-FRIENDLY WE ARE ?

When we just pause and think how much we are dependent we are on plastic daily we would be surprised that from morning till night there are many products like toothbrush, earbuds, lunchbox, coffee mugs, water bottles, soap cases, straws, many more which we consume daily and is unknown of the fact that that this plastic is spoiling our health and is harmful.

According to a survey we produce about 400 million tons of plastic waste ever year. Most plastic items just break down in smaller pieces which accumulate in organs through inhalation and absorption. Microplastics have been found in our lungs, liver, kidney and spleen and moreover in placentas of newborn babies.

Humans have not left the water also we throw plastics in rivers and oceans too. Plastics in the ocean is already more than 150 million tons of waste. The types of plastic which we use are PET (polyethylene terephthalate, used in water bottles dispensing containers, biscuit trays), HDPE (High-density polyethylene, used in shampoo-milk bottles, freezer bags, ice cream containers) LDPE (Low density polyethylene used in, Bags, trays, containers, food packaging film) PP (Polypropylene used in potato chips bag, microwave dishes, icecream tubs, bottle caps) PS (Polystyrene used in cutlery, plates and cups).

Lot of efforts have been made by people, organisations and government to eradicate plastic like there is a company named MacRebur which is using plastics to make roadways, they contribute in reducing the carbon footprint. And can you believe in South Africa a School was built of bricks. Plastics are used in making tables, beds, stages and even walls. Researchers from University of Bath with company Protomax have used plastics to make reusable shelters.

Not only this had a school boy named Aditya in New Delhi started a goal to eliminate 50,000 plastic drinking straws by getting it dumped in landfills. He created facebook page to talk on detrimental effects of Plastics and went to suggest suppliers and manufacturers from restaurants and cafes for alternative to plastics.

In two years he convinced over 150 entities to go plastic free which included 5 star hotels, cinemas, Hospitals of Delhi.

So to ban plastic is in your hands even by taking small steps and using non plastics we can save the environment.

the same." On the other hand, Respected Pro Vice-Chancellor Dr. Chinmay Pandya ji said during his speech that "if our mind is pure, our actions are pure, then this is the basis of yoga." At the same time, he said that efforts should be made to bring the basic spirit of our humanity through Yogaotsav in our lives.

During his stay in Europe, the Pro Vice-Chancellor of Dev Sanskriti Vishwavidyalaya, Dr. Chinmay Pandya reached Riga, Latvia. After reaching Latvia, he completed the program of Yagya at the Indian Culture Center located at the University of Latvia. The Honorable Chancellor and officials of the university were present in this program. During this, Respected Dr. Chinmay Pandya told all the people present there about the importance of Yagya and the benefits of Yajna. He said that according to Hindu Sanatan Dharma, performing Yagya after worship is considered the best. Because the medicine burnt in the havan purifies the air. Based on scientific knowledge also, Yagya is the right medium to keep the environment pure. Yagya is called Agnihotra. Agni is the main deity of Yagya. The material prasada put in the havan goes directly to our deities through holy fire. One of the best benefits of Yagya is that its smoke purifies the atmosphere.

There are several benefits of Havan. Panchopchar and Shodashopachara worship method is considered the main worship method. According to the Vedas,

YAGYA

Havan is considered to be the best method of worship to please the deity. From the point of view of health, the smoke of the sacred fire of Yagya destroys the germs and harmful organisms of the environment, which leads to purification. Important MoUs SIGNED by Hon. Pro Vice chancellor

DR. CHINMAY PANDYA JI
during his visit in Europe

Respected Vice Chancellor Dr. Chinmay Pandya ji, during his stay in Europe, established important contracts on behalf of the university. He signed a contract with the Maras Foundation of Latvian Culture in Yurmala. The contract was signed in the presence of Agriya Saporovska, the director of Maras Foundation of Latvian Culture.

The Vice-Chancellor also established an important agreement with the Baltic International Universities, Riga. Hon'ble Chancellor of Baltic International Universities Satnislav Baku ji was also present during the agreement.

Relations between India and the Baltic countries will be further strengthened by these latest efforts by Asia's first Baltic Education and Culture Center located at Dev Sanskriti University. The main objective of the university-based center is to study the cultural and linguistic similarities of India and the Baltic countries and to strengthen mutual relations. Dev Sanskriti University has more than 22 agreements with the Baltic countries. So far more than 300 people from the Baltic countries have visited this center. From time to time, students from Dev Sanskriti Vishwavidyalaya also visit Lithuania and Latvia under the 'Student Exchange Programme'. Baltic Education and Culture Center is a symbol of unity, sharing of common purpose and goal between India and the Baltic countries.

There he was invited as a speaker at the city's tourism forum. During this, he threw light on the pilgrimage tradition of India and also invited everyone to Shantikunj, Haridwar. Simultaneously, Respected Dr. Pandya Ji also met the Honorable Mayor of Daugavpils, Mr. Andreas Elksanis Ji. The students of Dev Sanskriti Vishwavidyalaya studying in the exchange program at Daugavpils University and their international coordinator were also present in the program.

He said that Indian culture is as diverse as its huge geographical location when describing it to the people in the audience. People in India speak a variety of languages, dress in a variety of styles, practice a variety of religions, and eat a variety of foods, but their nature is much the same. Whether it's a happy occasion or a sad one, people immerse themselves in it, sharing joy or sorrow. A festival or an event is not the same as a household or family committee. A community or neighborhood comes together to celebrate it.

In such a situation, the importance of pilgrimage centers in India increases. Giving information about Shantikunj, he said that

Hon. Pro Vice chancellor DR. CHINMAY PANDYA Ji's visit to DAUGAVPILS CITY OF LATVIA

Shantikunj Ashram, spread over an area of about three kilometers, is the largest and most wonderful ashram in India. Pandit Shriram Sharma Acharya is the founder of this ashram. All this is the work of the All World Gayatri Pariwar and Guruji's "Yug Parivartan" mission, a family of 30 crore people. Here people from all the states of India are engaged in fulfilling the unfulfilled dreams of Shri Ram Sharma ji in the form of time donors and life-givers. All of these people are quite pleasant. It's not just an ashram; it's also a campaign. The goal is to achieve the ascension of divinity in man and the descent of heaven on earth by eradicating the proliferation of false ideologies and injustice. A transition in the era and a re-establishment of the golden age civilization. Due to the perseverance of Yugrishi Shri Ram Sharma & his wife Mata Bhagwati Devi, the energy of Gayatri Mahamantra chanting, and the Gayatri Yagya performed by thousands of devotees, it has become a very powerful Siddha bhoomi.
